

Five free sites to learn how to type.

Would you like to learn to type better? Whether you are new to the computer or just tired of pecking away with just two fingers, learning to type online can be free and easy.

Below are five great websites that can teach you how to improve your typing:

typingweb.com – this site offers straightforward tutorials and typing practice games. It allows you to choose to learn in several different languages and if desired you can earn an official typing certification. However, you must register if you want to track your progress.

Goodtyping.com – this site allows you to choose from over 20 different keyboard layouts for those who reside outside of the U.S. You must register to use the site, but your information is collected for statistical purposes only Sense-Lang's Balloon Game – Once you get the basics down, this game is great for teaching you how to type without looking at the keyboard.

Typeonline -The typing tutorials on this site also include lessons on how to use a keyboard number pad for those who may need to enter a lot of numerical data.

Typeracer – You can improve your speed on this site by entering typing races with your friends or others from around the globe. If you are motivated by fun and competition then this is the site for you.

Get started today and you can be an expert at typing in no time. To gain more 21st century skills, visit our Computer Basics or Internet Basics topics.

<http://blog.gcflearnfree.org/2011/02/5-free-sites-for-learning-how-to-type/>